

Nursing revalidation/CPD. We can help.

Revalidation can be a daunting task for nursing staff. So how can we help them?

Make sure your nursing staff have access to the Online Royal Marsden Manual of Clinical Nursing Procedures.

Not only is it recognised as the definitive guide to clinical nursing skills for the last 30 years, it is also a useful tool in helping nurses complete their revalidation.

How? In the following ways:

- Nurses can demonstrate their continued professional development by reading the Manual for references and reviewing the latest evidence for specific procedures, before they put them into practice.
- Nurses can then incorporate it into their practice based feedback by asking other nurses for written feedback on the knowledge and skills they have demonstrated performing the procedure.
- Nurses can then write up the experience as part of their written reflection.

Review and share our free recorded webinar, where the authors (who are nurses themselves) show the many ways The Royal Marsden Manual can get nurses through revalidation.

Scan the QR code (or copy the URL) to get started:

<https://goo.gl/syM7Ap>

Make sure your nurses have the resources to make revalidation easier.

To find out more, or enquire about using the Online version of The Royal Marsden Manual of Clinical Nursing Procedures, please contact:

NHS

Rachel Wilkinson at rwilkinson@wiley.com

WILEY